... for the position of French teacher as advertised in The European.

My academic qualifications include a degree in French from Oxford University. I have spent several years in Paris and therefore, I have excellent practical knowledge of French. I've also worked as an assistant French teacher for two years in a school outside London. I am unemployed at the moment.

I enclose/am enclosing references from my former employer and my CV. I trust you will give my application serious consideration.

I look forward/am looking forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Yours faithfully,

... the new TV set I had ordered. However, I was very angry as it arrived in a terrible condition. Firstly, the delivery men were very rude and refused to wait while I was unpacking the TV. When I unpacked it, I saw it was damaged. The control knob was broken and there was a large crack on the top of the TV. I have never before received anything in such bad condition. Could you please arrange to collect this set and deliver a new one as soon as possible? I trust this matter will receive your prompt attention.

... Margarita's plane leaves Hamburg at 5.30 and arrives at London Gatwick at 6.45/at 6.45 at London Gatwick, so it will be an early start for you. As agreed, Margarita will work from 8 to 10 in the morning and 3 to 8 in the afternoon and evening. She will be having/will have English lessons every Saturday. As you know, by Christmas Margarita will have completed six months' employment and will therefore expect a pay rise of ten percent/a ten percent pay rise. I am going on holiday for three weeks on Saturday, so if you have any problems, (please) contact my secretary Elizabeth Hazlett. I hope things will run smoothly between you and Margarita.

Picture A

They work really hard. Their job is very dangerous. They were called an hour ago by a passer-by who had noticed flames coming out of the house. It will take them quite a long time to put out the fire. They have rescued the trapped woman, who is now in hospital. When they finish, they'll go to the fire station tired but happy that they saved a person.

Picture B

The family are having a picnic. They had been planning a day out in the open air for a long time but they waited for the weather to improve. They packed everything early in the morning and set off as soon as the children were up. They will spend the whole day in the country and by the time they go back home, they will have had such an excellent time that they will be planning their next excursion.

Picture C

Tony is at home working and looking after the baby. The baby's mother, Liz, has gone to the hospital to see her aunt. The baby looks puzzled about what his dad is doing. After Tony finishes his work, he'll take Tommy to the park.

Oral Development 2 (Suggested answer)

(If Ss have difficulty telling the story, the teacher can ask concept questions to help them.)

Concept questions

What were they looking forward to doing?
What was the weather like?
What did they do while on board?
Did they catch any fish?
Was it difficult for Bob to catch the big salmon?
How did the weather change?
Were they able to keep the boat under control?
Could they get close to the shore? Why not?
Who rescued them?

... were looking forward to doing this as they had been planning the trip for weeks. They got on the boat and sailed off. The day seemed to be fine. There wasn't a cloud in the sky. After about half an hour they decided to stop and try to catch some fish. Bob started casting/to cast and, to his amazement, managed to hook a big salmon almost immediately. The fish tried to get away, and continued fighting for a long time, but then it stopped struggling and Bob landed it. It was then that they all noticed the sky clouding up. The wind began to blow and the sea became very rough. They had a difficult time keeping the boat under control, and they were afraid to get too close to the shore because the rocks appeared to be dangerous. After a long time they happened to see a coastguard boat and signalled to it. The coastguard officers helped them (to) get into the harbour. They were extremely relieved to be back on dry land, and regretted ever having set out in the first place.

A. ... Carter explained that he had already been on holiday, reminding his boss that he had been on safari in Kenya. His boss then wanted to know whether Carter had gone in March. When Carter said that that was correct, his boss asked whether he had enjoyed his holiday. Carter explained that as he hadn't managed to see many animals, it had been (very) disappointing. The boss then asked him if he had any plans to go back there. Carter informed him that he had already booked tickets for the following year in February, adding that he thought it would be a better time for seeing the animals. The boss ended the conversation by saying jokingly that they would be looking for a new accountant if Carter came face to face with a lion.

B. ... the weekend in Scotland, adding that they would be able to find a cheap bed and breakfast in the Highlands. Cathy wanted to know what they were going to do all weekend with nothing but sheep for company. Andrea promised to teach her how to ski.

C. ... had written to the University of Madrid. James apologised, explaining that he hadn't had time. Mr Mills said that there was no point in apologising to him but he pointed out that James had to apply early because the universities/they fill their places very quickly. James then admitted that he was afraid of not passing his Spanish exam. Mr Mills asked him if he had been working hard. James said that he had but he had hoped to apply to Paris as he was much better at French. Mr Mills agreed that James was better at French and wanted to know whether he would write to the Sorbonne that night if he put his name down. James promised to write as soon as he got home.

A. ... "I'm not taking responsibility for our/the situation." "But you don't even know how to read a map," Catherine said. "I'll leave if you don't get us out of this mess." "But you always make me do all the work," Stephen complained. "I'm sorry for not helping," Catherine said, "but please do something as I don't want to spend the night in the open." "OK, we'll find somewhere to stay," Stephen said, "but just keep calm. Actually, would you mind helping me with the map reading?" "Of course," Catherine laughed. "Perhaps you should try holding the map the right way up."

B. ... a shipwreck full of treasure on the ocean floor," the diver boasted. "You are lying," his friend replied. "You see, that part of the sea has been explored thoroughly." "Well, I have found some treasure," the diver insisted and added, "only I have searched that particular area." "Well if this is the case," his friend replied, "you should notify the authorities as soon as possible in order to lay claim to the treasure. If you fail to do so," she continued, "someone else may claim the treasure for themselves." "Well actually," the diver admitted, "the wreck isn't really that old and the treasure consists of Monopoly money!"

157. A valuable painting has been discovered by Mr Owen Gibbon in the attic of his house in Rochester. The work was painted by George Stubbs, the famous animal artist, in 1760. The picture was bought by Mr Gibbon's great-grandfather in the 1890's, but after his death it was stored away in the attic. The painting is being examined (by art historians) and has been valued at £500,000. The work has been offered to the National Gallery (by Mr Gibbon), where the picture will be restored to its former beauty. The restoration work will have been finished by June.

158. (Suggested answers)

A. The film which the public has been waiting for for so long, The Hawk, has finally been released by the Winter Production Company. It was originally going to be released by the Winter Company in August but they decided to wait until October, as it is known that fewer people go to the cinema in the summer. The Hawk was directed by Richard Able and people are being encouraged (by critics) to see it. British audiences are reported to have bought a lot of tickets so the Hawk is sure to be a success.

B. Over the past ten years the seas surrounding Britain have been polluted by oil spills. Oil is spilled onto the coast (by tankers) and many forms of wildlife are harmed. It is said by environmentalists that a lot of volunteers are needed if the damage is to be minimised. It has been promised by the government that in future the owners of any tankers that pollute the North Sea in this way will be prosecuted. It is also hoped that such incidents can be prevented if more lighthouses are built along the coastline.
